December 17 2021 Social Media

So there's been this thing on TikTok saying December 17th Saying kids will die cause teens will be shooting at schools(in Texas)
Now don't believe them my niece is crying to me for this Saying she will die.
Don't be sad or nothing just cause someone said this Doesn't mean it could happend
Besides if it's already on TikTok
Police with already could be involved with this

NCPD Homeland Security has received information that another social media thread is circulating in our community. This thread warns of an impending school attack on Friday 12/17/21. These TikTok Videos are being created nationwide based on an unverified threat. Many of the videos include the Hashtag: #december17th, #staysafe, #Schoolshootings, #bombthreats, #skipschool.

The posts warn of rumors that the posting parties have heard regarding a nationwide attack on schools. However none of the parties indicate that they have any independent knowledge of a threat. Some of the posting parties even indicate that they believe this is a hoax but they have elected to share the information anyway.

Unfortunately the repeated re-posting of these threats in local group chats can give the perception that this is a local threat. There is no indication that this threat has any connection to Nassau County. It is important to consider the impacts of reposting these types of images without properly vetting their origin or authenticity. Anyone with information is encouraged to share it with NCPD so that we can properly investigate these threats. These posts are also being monitored by our regional partners in law enforcement.
